Chin Tzu-Sing, otherwise known as Xanadu, Master of Dragons, is the owner of Finng-Yu and Master of the Wu Hang clan. He is infamously known as the greatest martial artist in the world. He currently rides a fully-completed red dragon named Balisong. Contents It is a popular theory among some martial artists that Xanadu can take any form he pleases. This indicates that Shanhans are capable of taking any form, and there have been claims of their ability to take the form of animals, water elementals, or even spirits. However, this does not agree with the idea that spirits are fixed entities, and as a result, the spirit's form and personality are not fixed. Instead, a spirit can take any form it desires, but its true form cannot truly change. As a result, the appearance of Xanadu is merely illusion, similar to the appearance of the Shikans, and he is never only one person. His true form is a spirit's true form, and the forms he appears in are illusions generated by his Magickal abilities. Xanadu is arguably the most famous, if not the best skilled martial artist in the world. He often trains his students to be as talented as he is; however, he has been known to test his students on things they would fail at during training, if he deems it appropriate to their respective abilities. The players have been known to train themselves in a similar manner. Xanadu keeps secret sources of strength deep within his body that only his dragon can access. It sometimes appears from his wrist, but is largely an illusion, as it is revealed to be a fake dragon made of steel. It appears to be metallic in color, as well as having multiple ribs running the length of its body. A forearm of unknown origin and a clasp for attaching a wristband appear to originate from it. Xanadu is one of the most talented and feared martial artists in the world. He is able to perform complex and difficult feats, such as twisting his entire body as hard as he can. His fast twirls on one foot can cause an opponent to have trouble keeping up. He can quickly create seams in a leather bag as small as a lady's hand, and his nimble right hand is able to perform complex hair styling. His hair is done in a style known as the "Wu Shimo Hair Rink
