
Andy Casanova -Stupri Italiani 10 - Cappuccetto Rosso PORTABLE

I have a file input.txt that contains, as content the second line (the one between the empty line and the empty line). It works if I just iterate one by one the lines of the file... But my idea is to make some program that will make the same thing that input.txt that will run on one line! So... how I can write the code...? `$file = fopen("input.txt","r"); while (!feof($file)) { $line = fgets($file); //$line is the second line of input.txt echo $line; // But the line that I echo is the second line of input.txt } fclose($file);` A: Try to the following: `$lines = file('input.txt'); $filtered = array_map(function($item) { return trim(str_replace('\r ', '', $item)); }, $lines); print_r($filtered);` This removes the empty line, and removes carriage returns. Then I've changed it to `array_map()` instead of `for`, to ensure that only valid line strings are printed. Also, notice, that an empty element (the empty line, in your file) is not even there. Q: Limit /Equivalence of: $\lim_{x \rightarrow 0} 1^x \log(1+x)$ Can anybody please give me insight in the following limit? $\lim_{x \rightarrow 0} 1^x \log(1+x)$ My first thought was that this can be rewritten as: $\lim_{x \rightarrow 0} 1^x \lim_{x \rightarrow 0} \frac{x}{1+x}$ If I can show that the two limits are equal, then the statement is proven. However, I can't seem to be able to show this equivalence. Anyone? A: Note that for all $x \in \mathbb{R}$, $0 \leq 1^x \log(1+x) \leq 1^x$ and $1^x \leq 1$, hence the limit as $x \rightarrow 0$
