We are so lucky to have an Internet connection at home. I was able to watch the The Hunger Games yesterday, I'll tell you more about that later. Today is my first day of class and I could not be more excited. In October I applied for a job with the Study Team and hopefully I'll get an interview this month. I've been writing for schoolwork and applying for jobs so I have mucho free time on my hands. I will be entering my final year in university and I'll be a Doctor of Chiropractic next year! I will definitely be exercising and practicing my dancing. I'm still going to a gym but my school doesn't have a facility there and doesn't help students pay to do it. My friend doesn't have money to pay for gym time and she's too far away from the gym. The school has a track and I'd like to use that but not sure if they have anyone on staff that could help me out. I can only do cardio and we are using a treadmill. If I have a chance to do a video game for the students I'd love to do that! It would look fun and easy to play. I made it through Hunger Games night fine. I had to work during the evening so after work I didn't have time to watch it. I'll be sure to watch it next weekend. It was a tough second half of the movie but I was all for the movie because of it's ending. I was hoping that it would move along faster but I know that's probably not the case with 6d1f23a050
